Villagers face big rent hike

PLEASANTON — Komandorski Village tenants face a possible 20 per cent rent increase, but their very own tenant commissioner is going to try to stave it off.

Beverly Montgomery, who attended her first meeting as a commissioner along with new tenant commissioner Cecilia Governor of Kottlinger Place, asked her fellow commissioners to give her a couple of weeks to make a conservation pitch to the Komandorski residents.

If the tenants can conserve enough fuel oil and electricity to cut down the mounting utility bills which the housing authority must pay, there may not have to be a rent increase, said Montgomery.

The other commissioners agreed it's worth a try, although Chairman Bill Thompson thought that it's likely conservation can't cancel out the entire increase of 20 per cent which the housing authority has had to pay.

Thompson thought the tenants would be lucky to keep the rent increase to 10 per cent, since inflation has risen at least that much and it must be compensated.

At Commissioner Ed Alves' suggestion, the commissioners voted unanimously to save approximately $8,000 to $9,000, cutting the Payment In Lieu of Taxes (PILOT) fund from nearly $10,000 to a token $1,000 for the coming year.

The PILOT fund is the housing authority's gesture to pay for city and county services, even though housing authorities are not subject to taxes. Alves said that in view of the tight budget now, it's time to take advantage of the housing authority's tax-free status.

"People are saying every time they turn around there is a rent increase," said Montgomery. "I've told people personally that it's too hot in their apartments or to turn out a light. I have to get through to more of them. On a friendly basis I'm trying to put a (conservation) plan across."

The housing authority lost $32,441 over the past 10 months, reported Executive Director Michael Parsons. He recommended that rents be increased as follows: one bedroom, from $93 to $110; two bedrooms, from $104 to $125; three bedrooms, from $114 to $140; four bedrooms, from $135 to $160; and five bedrooms, from $159 to $190.

The proposed 20 per cent increase would not give the housing authority a profit, but merely balance the books, said Parsons.

Komandorski to seek extension

PLEASANTON — The Housing Authority will have to buckle down and cook up definite plans for new housing if it expects to get the life of Komandorski Village extended beyond the Jan. 1, 1977, deadline set by the Legislature.

Housing Authority Attorney William Struthers, who has seen Komandorski through two or three previous extensions of life, said this time the Legislature is going to put Pleasanton to the test.

Assemblyman Floyd Mori has a bill in the Legislature to prolong the life of Komandorski another two years, but it won't pass unless PHA can show some definite assurances there will be replacement housing, said Struthers.

He urged commissioners to put something together over the next five weeks, "something involving financing, site selection or sewer connections, to show we are not just extending the life of Komandorski, but we are moving on replacing it."

The housing authority has been stymied by the lack of sewer connections from developing any replacement housing. PHA did not participate in the 1972 sewer agreement to the VCS plant and VCS looks at its 175 connections at Komandorski Village as "temporary" connections because the war housing was supposed to be temporary. PHA will have to get new connections somewhere if it expects to get into the VCS plant.

In effect, it means PHA will have to hunt for some land with sewer connections, Executive Director Michael Parsons told The Times yesterday.

Struthers told the commissioners Wednesday night that it is "very clear this would be the last extension. There was some debate whether we should ask for two or four years extension, but in view of the people drafting the legislation and their mood, I felt two years was preferable. If we are ready to break ground in a year and a half, then we could get a further extension so tenants can be relocated."

Commissioners resolved to confer with VCS, the Local Agency Formation Commission and Pleasanton Greens to map out a comprehensive plan for replacement housing.

On another item, Struthers explained to commissioners why he thought Chairman Bill Thompson has the right to serve out his term until January with the PHA.

A majority of the city council has called for Thompson's resignation because he lives outside the city and they feel that according to a new state law his rural residence disqualifies him.

Struthers said that the council was referring to the wrong section of the new law. He feels the appropriate section is the one which says that the housing authority may be comprised of five "persons", with no stipulation at all that they be "resident electors" (registered voters in the city).

Couple sues inn, LARPD over wreck

Alameda County Bureau OAKLAND — A Livermore couple has filed suit following an auto accident last September that has left the wife in Fremont Hospital.

Veronica and William Dougherty named the Pleasanton Lounge and its owner, the Roundup Inn and its owner, the Livermore Area Park and Recreation District (LARPD), City of Livermore the driver of the other car and his wife claiming John M. Beserra was intoxicated when he smashed into Mrs. Dougherty's car last fall.

The Doughertys claim Mr. Beserra was served alcohol and allowed to drive away from both the Pleasanton Lounge and the Roundup Inn, "knowing (him) to be intoxicated."

Recent court decisions have held restaurants and bars liable when one of their patrons has caused an auto accident after drinking on the premises.

Mrs. Dougherty was sent to the hospital with cerebral concussions and contusions, broken ribs, internal injuries and cuts and was reported in a coma.

Mr. Dougherty, who filed the suit, apparently was not involved in the accident.

The couple has named the LARPD because of its tennis courts at Seventh and South H streets in Livermore. They claim the 12 foot canvas backdrop created "a dangerous intersection" that "interferes with the safe usage" of the intersection.

The City of Livermore is cited for failing to install traffic signals, signs or warning devices after the canvas backdrop was installed and allowing "a dangerous and defective" intersection to be created.

The couple is suing Pleasanton Lounge owner Maurice Williamson and Roundup Inn proprietor Marie Dooley as well as 50 unnamed, individual "Does" and 15 "Doe Corporations."

The suit asks for general and special damages, suit costs and "further relief as the court may deem proper." No dollar amount is named.

The couple filed claims against both LARPD and the city following the Sept. 24 accident. Both claims were rejected.

No idle pipe dream

New child-care program may be near

The Valley may be getting a bright new child-care program that will warm the hearts of working parents anywhere.

It sounds like a pipe dream: Reasonably-priced day care that will allow even low-income people to work instead of staying home with the kids.

A centralized phone number, so you can find a spot for the kids in a home or center just as soon as you have a job.

A lending "library" of everything from toys to playpens, which can be borrowed by child care "providers" free of charge.

A van to pick up the kids after school and take them to the sitter while Mom and Dad are at work. Ruth Freis and Miriam Miller, Livermore early childhood consultants, don't think it's a pipe dream. In fact, they've already made it a reality in Palo Alto, where the city paid for a $350,000 program they designed.

The two dynamic teachers, who have been teaming up for years to offer their services as consultants, want to tailor a program especially for Dublin, Pleasanton and Livermore families. They plan to apply for a state grant to pay for food subsidies, administrative salaries, equipment and funds to help subsidize low-income parents who can't afford the full cost of child care.

Besides being a bonanza for working parents, the new program would help the owners of day-care centers and individuals who care for children in their homes.

A program coordinator would be in charge of matching up children with day-care openings in homes or centers, saving the parents a lot of phone calls and relieving the providers from having long periods of operating at less than capacity.

The directors of homes and centers could also cooperate in ordering supplies, from paper to disposable diapers — sometimes saving as much as 40 per cent by placing bulk orders.

The possibilities are endless. Freis and Miller want to hear suggestions from parents and providers alike, and are holding a meeting June 7 for that purpose.

It will be at 7:30 p.m. in Room E-1 of Amador High School, Santa Rita Road, Pleasanton.

Anyone who can't attend may call 443-2313 to find out more about the program.

Some local babysitters, especially in Dublin, already have an organization thanks to early efforts Freis and Miller made about a year and a half ago.

At that time, their object was just to get providers in touch with each other for mutual support.

This time, the purpose is to design a program that may well become a dream come true.

The City of Palo Alto paid the two women for their organizing effort, but for the Valley, they are making the effort for free.

"Our gift to the Valley," they say after having lived here 17 years, in Ruth's case, and 20, in Miriam's.

They feel the need becomes more pressing every day. "Society is changing very rapidly," Miriam observes. "There are 30 per cent more single parents than there were 10 years ago, for example. And most of them have to work.

"Besides that, more and more people are finding both parents have to work just to support their families. It's becoming an effort for the mother not to leave the home."

"It's true," adds Ruth, "that there's a declining birth rate. Families are getting smaller. But at the same time, the family structure has changed and child care is needed more now than ever."

But a big child care program, they feel, goes far beyond being a convenience.

They see it as a way to improve community happiness, prevent vandalism, encourage people to work together.

"If you take care of your children," Ruth predicts, "they will grow up and take care of the community."

"Families don't feel so alienated and don't pass it on to the kids. This program can bring about community participation and caring in a visible way."

Hang gliderist injured in crash

LIVERMORE — A 29-year-old Pleasanton man remains in serious condition after he crashed to earth in his hang glider Tuesday.

William Johansen of Grand Canyon Court was listed in satisfactory condition at Kaiser Hospital in Walnut Creek. He received several fractures as a result of the accident, officials said.

According to authorities, Johansen was gliding over the top of a hill at North Greenville Road when he plunged to the ground for unknown reasons. All-terrain vehicles from the county rescued the man and transported him to Valley Memorial Hospital, from which he was later transferred to Kaiser.

Vandals attack string of cars on Swallow and Dogwood

LIVERMORE — Vandals broke windows on three cars parked on Swallow and Dogwood streets early Monday, police reported yesterday.

Bob Johannes of Dogwood Drive first reported the rear window of his Volkswagen had been broken, but neighbors told police they heard nothing.

Vandals then attacked Timothy Louis McNeil's Toyota while it was parked in front of his Swallow Drive home. The rear window had been broken, but police report no signs of any weapon used in the breakage.

Sangmoo Ahn's 1974 Chevrolet was the third car attacked, as vandals broke the right front window. No damage estimates were available.

Police have no clues in the attack.

Police search for youths involved in burglary

LIVERMORE — Two youths who attempted to steal fishing equipment from a Peony Drive residence but were discovered by a neighbor are being sought for questioning by police.

Vermitt Williams of Peony saw two youths enter a nearby garage late Tuesday and take three fishing rods. Williams apprehended one of the juveniles as the other escaped on his bike.

While awaiting the arrival of police, the youth suddenly broke away from Williams and escaped on his bike. Police later found an identification card and several papers apparently belonging to the suspect at Williams house.

The fishing rods were returned to owner Frank Armbruster. Police have made no arrests in the case.

Didn't accuse says Brandes

PLEASANTON — Fire department officials Ted Klenk and George Withers may not have been the parties responsible for the accidental burning of Fallon House last Friday, Councilman Frank Brandes told The Times.

Then again, they may have been responsible. But press reports made it look like Brandes was blaming Klenk and Withers at the city council meeting Monday night, when in fact, he didn't intend to single them out, said the councilman.

"The whole acting administrative staff has some responsibility in the Fallon House incident," said Brandes.

"That's why I said that I want a fire chief who is selected by examination and interview," said Brandes. He is opposed to the current organization of the Department of Public Safety headed by former Police Chief Walt McCloud.

"I believe these administrative problems and difficulties can best be handled by a bona fide fire chief," he said.

Council splits on sign issue

PLEASANTON — The subjective judgments of economy versus safety cropped up Monday night before the city council in a small but typifying item which split the council 3-2.

Director of Engineering Services Don Sooby asked for $6,000 to buy a new flashing school crossing warning.

Council members Frank Brandes and Ken Mercer, who are trying to stop a tax increase next year, objected to appropriating the $6,000. They felt that $1,000 of insurance money would fix up the old flashing sign.

But Sooby noted that the old flasher didn't have a manually set timer which would enable a crossing guard to set the light flashing during school hours. Instead the old sign would have to flash 24 hours a day, which would mean that it would not register psychologically as a warning to motorists, said Sooby. In effect, it would render the sign's function useless, he said.

Council members Joyce LeClaire, William Herlihy and Bob Philcox agreed with Sooby and formed the majority which appropriated the $6,000.

On another item, the council unanimously approved a contract for resurfacing of Ray Street from Main Street to the railroad tracks for $6,176, well under the engineer's estimate of $9,500.

The council also authorized a bid for the landscaping of the cultural arts center on a bid of $10,872, slightly over the engineer's estimate of $10,236.

County strike nears deadline

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — County supervisors yesterday gave final approval to a pay package that may send 5,500 social service employees on strike.

The employees, members of Service Employees International Union locals 250, 535 and 616, could take another 1,500 to 2,000 employees with them if other unions honor the picket lines and effectively close down county services.

The service unions will begin picketing at 12:01 a.m., Wednesday, if the county does not sweeten its 4.2 per cent pay and fringe benefits offer.

Union negotiators have demanded a 7.6 per cent increase they say is equal to the pay package approved for management last week.

According to county supervisors, who voted 4-1 in the second reading of the ordinance, the salary and benefits increases are based on a formula that pegs county employees' pay at 4 per cent above the median wage for comparable jobs in the Bay Area. The new salary ordinance automatically goes into effect July 1.

Union negotiator John Bowers warned "the board's blatant favoritism toward management in offering management personnel a $99 per month increase and the working folk $28 a month is going to set this county on fire."

Assistant Secretary of the Alameda County Labor Council Ed Collins told the board it would have to accept the unions' $6.25 million packet submitted shortly before yesterday's meeting. "The only way to avert a strike is for the board of supervisors to back into the 20th Century," he said later.

There was some disagreement over the effect the strike will have on other unions, however.

Collins said he "expect(s) all unions that have people employed by the county to honor the picket line," while Board of Supervisors' Chairman Fred Cooper claimed other unions have agreed not to honor any lines.

Negotiators for 60 county sheriff's deputies signed a 7 per cent pay increase contract earlier this week that includes a "no strike" clause. But the disposition of nearly 400 crafts workers who've yet to ink their contract remains in doubt.

Representatives of the crafts workers have struck a tentative agreement calling for a 1 per cent pay increase July 1 and another 1 per cent about January 1. That salary ordinance also was read yesterday, but may be rejected by the unions in a general membership vote set for Tuesday night.

The county first offered craftsmen no pay increase and the union voted to strike. The membership reportedly is dissatisfied with the offer, but, in view of the supervisors' pay formula, may accept it.

Building Trade Council spokesman George Hess, who represents the crafts workers in the bargaining talks, said he "won't know until Tuesday night" whether or not the members will honor picket lines. "If the membership rejects the offer, we'll be out there with the service employees," he said.

Board chairman Cooper said the supervisors' offer to SEIU employees "is fair, not just holding the line." Union members were given a 13 per cent pay increase last year, while management received 7 per cent, he said.

In rebuttal, Bowers said the raises were reversed the year before that.

This year's salary adjustments conform to the county's salary survey and pay formula, Cooper claimed.

Only north county supervisor Tom Bates, a candidate for the 12th Assembly District seat in next week's election, dissented in the vote.

He said he is "not happy with the distribution of the money," and thinks the additional $2 million the union pay package would require "is in the budget."

"It's no secret we've been putting money in the budget for capital improvements," he said, echoing union negotiators' complaints. "Are we going to build buildings or compensate people?"

Bowers charged the county with "squirreling away" about $13 million in a "contingency fund" the labor negotiator says is explained in "very vague language."

The unions also have charged the county with setting aside some $54 million for capital improvements in order to avoid putting bond measures before the public. The money will be used to improve existing court and jail facilities and to construct new ones.

"It's the county's way of taking care of the poor," Bowers said.

Cooper claims the county has appropriated "about $21 or $22 million" for capital improvements and "the rest will have to be borrowed through bonds."

The $11 million is a reduced carry over from last year, he explained.

Pay increases for the service employees "would mean cuts elsewhere," he said, or an increase in the county's property tax rate.

The county is expecting a 12 per cent increase in assessed valuation this year, he noted, but that still will not cover the unions' demands.

The board still will negotiate caseload and scheduling issues also raised by service employees' representatives. As for further salary negotiations, he said "the unions have the board's phone number." — by Ron Rodriguez

Details and costs of all classes offered by LARP during its Summer '76 session are available in the "Summer Program and Leisure Guide" newspaper published by the District and distributed to all Livermore residents earlier this week.

Mercer earns help

Preliminary budget

PLEASANTON — The city's proposed budget didn't shrink any further Monday night, but support for it did.

The preliminary budget which was approved at a work session a week ago on a 4-1 vote passed Monday night 3-2.

And Councilman Ken Mercer, leader of a movement against the five cent tax increase proposed in the preliminary budget, told The Times he not only is glad Frank Brandes joined him but smells the possible third vote for reversal coming from Bill Herlihy.

"Herlihy made comments along the same lines (as Brandes)," Mercer told The Times yesterday. "Herlihy said he didn't feel the resolution Monday was anything more than a preliminary budget."

Herlihy didn't agree with Mercer's prognosis yesterday. While he has an open mind right down to the wire, Herlihy feels that the budget can't be cut any more without crippling programs. Inflation has meant that taxes must rise, he said.

Water follies

As the campaign for those three vacancies on the Zone 7 water board steams up, we begin to get the usual pre-election haze around such questions as water rates, financial reserves and that sort of thing.

While we might all wish that Zone 7 — which functions through state enactment but wholly reliant on a shared county staff — could provide us with a budget statement any one might understand, still that shortcoming in no way suggests the incumbent water board has been negligent, crooked or even misguided.

The fact is that this Valley would be in serious water deficit today if it weren't for Zone 7's function; we would be operating on critically short summer rations if we didn't have that contract with the state; and our water bills — even for that minimal supply — could be considerably higher if it were not for the fact that Zone 7 sells abundant water at wholesale rates to such retailers as VCS and the cities of Livermore and Pleasanton.

That water board is far from perfect, and we can always expect improvement in service and in communication. But we can not in justice fault Zone 7 for selling water at just over cost, particularly when those retailers mark up that price to return handsome profit to their own treasury, at the consumer's expense.

STOP lights

Guess what? Downtown Pleasanton is about to join the ranks of other big cities like Livermore and Hayward and even Tracy. The "STOP LIGHT" is coming!

By now well established along the outer city's major arterials, signal systems seem destined to make a major intrusion into the Old Town's core area, in this Bicentennial Year.

First Street and Neal, then Neal and Main, then St. Mary's and Main ... that seems to be the schedule. But, as one traffic expert noted, "traffic lights are like peanuts ... you can't stop at just one." Or even half a dozen.

If the idea is to move traffic (including all those untouchable gravel trucks) along First Street with unimpeded ease, then nothing less than four more signal systems at every First Street intersection will do the job. Same for Main Street, so add another five signal lights there. Sprinkle a few at places along Rose Avenue and St. Mary's and Pleasanton Avenue and VOILA! — Pleasanton has become a full-fledged city.

Just like downtown Tracy.

Before that great day arrives, we wonder if some one at City Hall has ever wondered "What is traffic? And why?" Is there a cop on the force who has been trained in (ugh!) directing traffic? Is there any chance at completing the Del Valle Parkway bypass, even with temporary measures, but providing marvelous relief for the congested core area?

At a minimum of $40,000 per signal system, you would think somebody might ask if $600,000 spent on "providing interim relief" for downtown's traffic flow is really a good investment. And wondering also what becomes of that "unique downtown area in Pleasanton" once all those lights are installed, and great hordes of cars and trucks are able to move on through ... zoom, zoom, zoom.

Just what the world has always needed. Another Main Street ... Tracy ... or Castro Valley ... Morgan Hill even.

Heritage? Forget it. Charm? Something that went out with white-frame churches on tree-lined corners. Keep the cars and the people moving, that's the thing. No matter what the price.

Mayor Tirsell fires back

Copy of a letter to:—
Tri-Valley Herald

It is my opinion that the invective of the Herald and News editorial pages is very damaging to Livermore's business reputation.

As a case in point I would draw your attention to the editorial and cartoon that appeared on Wednesday, May 19, which stated that the Livermore City Council shoots down business. You apparently hold the Council responsible for the fact that one merchant has chosen to retire after having enjoyed a very successful career on First Street. Further, another business which faced stiff competition from newer, larger businesses had closed. Third, that the Council did wrongfully oppose a wholesale grocery store in a neighborhood that violently and vociferously opposed it. Fourth, that a lumber company had left town after being given the "run around" by the City. Upon checking we find that the Company had been given at least three separate sessions with the Planning Commission to assist them, and that the Staff had not made the statements attributed to them in your news story. And last, that we had lost a brewery which, in fact, had never considered locating in or near Livermore.

On the very day the above editorial and cartoon appeared, most the City Staff and I were in conference with a firm that we hope will be an anchor store in Phase II of the Southern Pacific shopping center project. The regional director of this firm was favorably impressed with Livermore's business potential and most encouraging about locating here. We drove him through our Central Business District which was very much alive with new business construction and beautification projects designed to make it attractive to firms such as his. We can only hope that he did not stop to buy a copy of the Herald and News before leaving town.

FOCUS/Murray, San Ramon

Not bittersweet

While the Amador and Pleasanton school districts are in the midst of trying to pass revenue increase measures (which have drawn a thundering round of apathy to date), the Murray and San Ramon Valley school districts are trying to resolve some non-ballot problems of their own.

Murray may have the most far-reaching problems of all.

The administration finds itself in a position with very little latitude. On the surface, it would appear the district can change within by redesignating building uses and busing students...if it ultimately decides that the status quo should be disturbed.

District administrators and parents should take a long look at Proposition 1, though, before they proceed much farther. The measure is on the June 8 ballot statewide and could be of benefit to Murray, among others, if they decide to go the portables route.

It is pretty obvious that what ever the district's Citizens Advisory Committee comes up with, presumably in tandem with demographer Allan Richards, it will heavily involve Donlon School, the biggest school enrollment-wise in the district.

Donlon is on the Pleasanton side of Highway 580, as is Lydiksen. The former is K-8 and Lydiksen K-6.

All other schools in the Murray district are in Dublin and with one or two exceptions are losing enrollment.

It is quite possible that the citizens panel may ultimately consider busing to place more students in schools north of Highway 580. Donlon is bulging and the only recourse might be to move some grades to another district facility...or place more portables at Donlon.

Key to the final solution may rest in the questionnaire that will be going out in the next couple weeks to Murray district parents. We fervently hope that EVERY parent take the time to review the questions (worked up by the citizens committee in cooperation with Ann Feathers of Applied Technology), answer them and return the form.

Richards is tentatively scheduled to meet with the citizens group next Wednesday at Fredericksen. Meetings are open to the public and get underway at 7:30 p.m.

San Ramon's problems are more of a bittersweet nature. The southern section of the district is experiencing considerable and continuing growth. The district is also in danger of losing some of its assessed valuation because of the ambitious growth tentacles of the Walnut Creek school district.

Solution to the latter may be a year or more off.

Of more immediate concern, but just to students and some parents at California High, is the alleged lack of athletic facilities at the school.

What the students and parents want is a football field, plus auxiliary practice fields.

Foothill High in Pleasanton is apparently after the same ends.

The Foothill Boosters, however, have a well-oiled machine in motion that has already gotten a promise from Amador trustees that they'll put $50,000 (of the community services tax) towards preparation of plans and specifications.

Presumably, the Boosters and students will carry the ball in paying for the lights and bleachers.

But as previously noted, these are bittersweet problems and pale in the shadow of Murray's.

Many thanks to KNBR and the Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce for ruining our city in the fiasco, otherwise known as the "Good Times Parade."

Sure it's fine for the people from out of town, who leave their garbage, and return to their homes. The residents get the bad end of the gun. People throwing water balloons at our houses, trampling in our yards, their dogs leaving excrement on our lawns, asking to use our bathrooms, and other things.

It is bad enough that us taxpayers have to put up with the fair each year, but is the "Good Times Parade," going to start another tradition that us residents have to live through?

The people who live in Vintage Hills, or Castlewood, or Pleasanton Valley think it is fine and dandy, they are just the type of people who support this type of thing. But no one thinks of the downtown residents who get the run around.

Does Pleasanton really need another year of the "Good Times Parade?"

Town hall again

Editor, The Times:

Here it is election time and all the promises are coming out of the closet, dusted off and presented as new or unique ideas or problems. Each candidate is sure that only they have the answers.

I don't have all the answers. If I was all-knowing and suppose I had the answers, would you believe me? Of course not. Past experience seems to have created apathy on the part of the voters as well as the decision makers who are in a position to do something.

Let's fantasize for a moment. Why not promote town-hall type meetings again? The interests and problems of the community could be aired and we may get some good input.

The newspapers are a very important tool in getting the information out to the community. It isn't their job however to ride herd on the decision makers to see if they follow through.

In our fast paced society some may feel that cracker barrel politicking won't work today. Sometimes you may have to take a step back before you go forward again. Antiquated? I don't feel it is. When voters voice their needs and present a challenge to me that represents progress.

PROP. 9 DEFENDED

Political practices

By: Daniel Lowenstein
Chairman, Fair Political Practices Commission

The recent column in these pages by Senator George N. Zenovich is typical of unfair attacks on the Fair Political Practices Commission by politicians who are anxious to discredit the Political Reform Act (Proposition 9 in 1974).

The Political Reform Act brought about meaningful and effective campaign disclosure, to bring to light the major contributors who pour millions of dollars into California elections; regulation of lobbyists, to prevent them from currying influence with public officials by campaign contributions and lavish gifts; and disclosure by public officials, to prevent conflicts of interest.

Understandably, Senator Zenovich does not discuss the contents or the substance of the Political Reform Act. If he did, he would run head on into the 70 percent majority that voted for Proposition Nine and still believe in full disclosure. Instead, Senator Zenovich attempts to set up a smokescreen by grossly mis-stating the facts of two incidents to give the impression that the Political Reform Act is operating unfairly against members of the Legislature.

I will respond to Senator Zenovich's charges, but first let me give a few examples of how Political Reform Act has improved California government and politics.

Almost every observer has agreed that the lavish wining and dining and gift-giving from lobbyists to legislators has come to an end. As a result, the Legislature has operated in a much more businesslike and even-handed way than before. For example, the Los Angeles

Times reported that the 1975 legislative session, the first under Proposition Nine, "was more efficient and open, and was less arrogant with its use of taxpayer dollars than any that can be remembered before."

Campaign disclosure has become a reality. Only a few years ago most people thought it was a great idea in theory but it would never work. Now it is working.

Disclosure of economic interests by public officials has been equally revealing. For example, a supervisor in a major county was forced to disclose he had received an expense-paid vacation in Hawaii from a firm for which only a few months later he voted a $48,000 storm drain project. Similar examples have occurred elsewhere.

In short, the Political Reform Act is doing a lot of good. But what about Senator Zenovich's accusations?

One of his charges makes no sense at all. On January 28, Senator Zenovich stated publicly that a ruling of the Fair Political Practices Commission would bring the Legislature to a "complete standstill" and would specifically prevent him from voting on the Agricultural Labor Relations Board issue then before the Senate. To avoid the danger of misinformation circulating about the requirements of Proposition Nine, I quickly sent him a letter explaining that there had been no such ruling by the Commission and that he could go ahead and vote on the ALRB issue.

The second matter is more substantial. Several legislators received "honoraria" of $1,000 each from the California Medical Association for panel appearances of less than two hours. There was evidence that at least as to some of the legislators the gifts were arranged by lobbyists. This would be a violation under Proposition Nine unless the legislators and lobbyists could carry the burden of proving that the $1,000 was fully earned.

Senator Zenovich correctly notes that a few of the legislators had sought advice from the FPCC staff regarding the honoraria, but he fails to mention that as soon as the Commission became aware of that fact it dropped all enforcement proceedings against those legislators. Senator Zenovich, while professing concern about the reputations of those involved, fails to note that it was the legislators and not the Commission or its staff that publicized the matter.

To be sure, there will be some problems in the initial stages of implementing Proposition Nine. Nobody said political reform would be easy. The important point is that the Political Reform Act is already proving its value in innumerable ways.

round the town

Some one remarked, "This will be the first time an American president ever stayed overnight in San Jose."

To which I added it probably also marked a presidential first for Holiday Inns.

It was that kind of visit by the little-known Representative from Michigan who suddenly found himself thrust into "the world's toughest job," and who now is struggling to convince Americans he should stay there.

Given an opportunity to talk to Gerald Ford, informally, casually, the American voter might wish that our leader might always be just another guy from Michigan, just a person trying to do his job.

Gerald Ford does not have "a strong tv projection." And since that is the medium over which 215 million Americans must measure him, Gerald Ford comes across as "not a very confident individual."

But as we sat there, 50 editors and publishers drawn from throughout northern California, comfortable in a space no bigger than your living room, there was opportunity to gain a different feeling for "the world's toughest job."

I have been close to "the Reagan personality" on more than one occasion, and I left those sessions impressed with the actor, but never knowing the man.

There has been opportunity to see Jerry Brown in action, close up. And one cannot help but be captivated by the man's magnetism, the sharp retort, the clever turn of a phrase. But I might never really know Jerry Brown even after a hundred such sessions.

After 45 minutes in the same room with Gerald Ford, after sitting five feet from that potted face, the high cheek bones burned by the California sun, the voice that is almost tiresomely assertive, you get the feeling that here is an American as ordinary as you and I.

No, "I don't anticipate any contact with Mr. Nixon or his people." Yes, "the primaries should be regionalized in some way, but not nationalized." And yes, he has advised the Cubans that "we mean business." But it all comes across with the same force, no faltering in the voice. From Nixon to Cuba, Gerald Ford is a man with but one message.

"I think I am the best man to lead this country." It is a conviction born of passion, rather than polish.

This was no gathering of Republicans, no carefully drawn list of "friendly newspaper people." I recognized several died-in-the-wool Democrats whose papers have endorsed nothing but Democrats. But even they admitted to being impressed.

"I didn't agree with a single thing he said, but I had to admire the guy for the way he comes across. You get the feeling he's telling it like it is."

That is the Gerald Ford you meet in a room with 50 people, swapping questions, ideas and answers, even as you and I.

"If Proposition 15 passes in California would that suggest any change in the Federal approach to nuclear energy?"

"No, and let me tell you why before I get back to Proposition 15." And then he proceeds to check off the figures, the known coal reserves against the firm environmental resistance, the money he has budgeted for solar energy research, the nation's rising dependency on foreign oil. No written notes, no aide standing by to whisper corrections. Gerald Ford knows his subject, and he speaks with confidence.

"The research and the record show that nuclear energy is as safe or safer than any other proven source of electrical energy ... we need 200 more nuclear plants by 1985 ... if Proposition 15 were on the ballot in Michigan, I would vote 'No.'" And then quickly, smiling sheepishly, "that is the right answer, isn't it? I get mixed up with these 'Yes' and 'No' things."

Even as you and I.

None of the Reagan polish, lacking the Carter charm. He comes across as the second string quarterback, trying to convince you that it's time to send in the second team. And only when you realize how many of us have never played first string do you get the idea that Ford could be a winner.

"Would you care to comment on the problems facing Congressman Hays?"

"If that happened in my staff, I know what I would do," he answers, affirmatively. "But I shouldn't involve myself in Congressional house-keeping."

And then the unintended play on words hits his audience. There is laughter. Gerald Ford laughs too, with you, at himself. He is that kind of person. Good or bad, he would make that kind of president.

I wanted to ask him, "You obviously enjoy this kind of intimate give-and-take. Why isn't it possible for our president to meet this way with clusters of American people? — getting to know us without that awesome shield of security, freed of television's plastic filter."

But there was no time. "Thank you Mr. President," the senior member of the news corps said. He had offered the time-honored cue once before, but Gerald Ford resisted that invitation to end a long, tiring day. "I want to spend just a few more minutes with you, if you don't mind."

No one minded at all, least of all the man who likes his job, and wants so very much to stay there.

Heart lead saves contract play. All South had to do was to cash one heart before leading the diamond.

With the actual East holding, he would not be able to lead a heart and would have to either set up a diamond in dummy or give declarer a ruff and discard. If hearts broke 3-2, the hand was cold.

Suppose that East started with four hearts. He could lead a heart, but all South would have to do would be to play the 10 if the nine were led, or his second big heart if the queen or jack were led.

Ask the Jacobys

A Nevada reader wants to know what is meant by the term, "Passive defense".

Passive defense consists of making safe leads and plays to wait for declarer to have to lead to you. Thus, defending against three notrump with:

▲ K J 9 7 ♥ K J 8 ♦ Q 10 3 ♣ 8 5 2, a club opening would be a waiting or passive lead.

(Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The Jacobys will answer individual questions if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Here is another Paul Lukacs' hand from the Bridge World. When actually played, South took a line that was almost sure to succeed, but just missed. He drew trumps cashed the king and ace of clubs and led a diamond to dummy's jack. East took his king and led back his singleton heart, whereupon the combination of four high hearts in the West hand and both high diamonds in East led to South's defeat.

Lukacs points out that there was an absolutely sure thing

Groundbreaking ceremonies of the New Life Fellowship Church, Hopyard and Valley Trails, were carried on under bright Pleasanton skies with the church's new pastor, the Rev. David R. Theobald, directing the observance. Also in attendance were visiting pastors, Harold Clemans, Edmond Dyess, Building Contractor James Hogue, and Pastor T. F. Tenney.

'New Life Fellowship' breaks ground here

PLEASANTON — A new church under the name of "New Life Fellowship" broke ground in Pleasanton this week under the direction of the Rev. David R. Theobald, formerly a director of publications and promotions of the foreign missions division of the United Pentecostal Church International.

Pastor Theobald has traveled extensively the last two years in America and Canada, raising monies for foreign missions. During this time he raised approximately $1,600,000. He feels the needs of the foreign missions are so great that he hopes his new church will give 50 per cent of all the tithes and offerings to them.

Pastor Theobald says, "New Life Fellowship is all that its name implies." "Through preaching of the gospel of Jesus Christ, we are offering every family in the city of Pleasanton and surrounding communities a 'New Life' through fellowship with God and with one another. This church has been designed to fill many of the unfilled needs of the American home: love, togetherness and a strong family unit."

He continues, "We believe that the supreme task of the church is the evangelization of the world; for when God loved, He loved the world, when Jesus Christ died, He died for the world."

Pastor Theobald feels that they must invest more of their money in the regions beyond than at home base since 94 per cent of the world's population lives outside the borders of North America.

Pastor Theobald has joined with local general building contractor, James Hogue, and formed "Missions Interprise." This construction firm will give its profits to pay for the construction of the planned facilities, and they hope in this way to abstain from any long term indebtedness on the church property located on Hopyard and Valley Trails Roads. They believe that New Life Fellowship will develop and grow into one of the leading missionary giving churches in America because of their Faith - Promise concept of giving to Missions.

Present for the groundbreaking ceremonies were T. F. Tenney, director of Foreign Missions; Harry Seism, regional field supervisor of Asia and South Pacific, and neighboring pastors: H. K. Duke, Raymond Theobald and Harold Clemans.

EBAL stars aim for state

Hoping to make their fondest dreams a reality, a host of East Bay Athletic League track athletes will compete in the North Coast Section Meet of Champions today and tomorrow at Edwards Stadium in Berkeley.

The dreams these athletes hope to realize is a trip to the California State High School Championships next week at the same site. The top four athletes in each event of the varsity and girls' divisions will advance on to the Big One.

There will be no team scoring at the Champions meet but that won't detract from the caliber of competition.

Leading the way for the EBAL varsity performers is Dublin hurdler Chuck Gangnuss. Gangnuss won the 120-yard high hurdles (14.2) and the 330-yard lows (38.5) at the North Coast Section 4-A meet last weekend at El Cerrito.

Gangnuss has the fastest highs time in the section and is second to Chris Koko of Sunset in the lows. Koko has run a 37.6 and was fourth in the section last season. Gangnuss has run 37.9 this year.

"We're hopeful Chuck can run in the low 37's this time," Dublin coach Tom Cathcart said. "While this track (Berkeley) is not as fast as some of the all-weather tracks it's much faster than the one at El Cerrito."

Cathcart also thinks Gangnuss can hit around 14.0 in the highs at Edwards Stadium.

Granada hurdler Scott

Campbell could also qualify for state in the hurdles. Campbell has the fifth fastest 330 qualifying time in the section. He has a seasonal best of 38.9. He has a best of 14.4 in the highs but qualified in 15.1.

Dan Harvey of Dublin finds himself in a tough field in the two-mile. Harvey's best of 9:30.9, set last week, ranks him fifth among the qualifiers. Harold Schultz of Redwood has the best time with a 9:13.9 clocking. Teammate Rod Berry has run 9:14.4, Aaron Collier of Tamalpais a 9:20.5 and Kevin Searls of College Park has done 9:21.4.

Searls beat Harvey last week for the 4-A crown, running a 9:29.7.

"Harvey will have to grab a position up with the leaders early," Cathcart said. "That will be his best chance. Searls must do that also."

Paul Swenson of San Ramon and Scott Kusko of Granada also have chances in the 880 and mile respectively.

The Wolf two-lapper has run 1:56.4 this year and qualified in 1:57.9. He finished second to Tom Smith of Mission San Jose. Smith ran a 1:57.1.

However, Dave Emery of Arroyo has the fastest qualifying time with a 1:55.0 clocking. Ron Arnerich of Alameda has run 1:55.1 and Mike White of Richmond has done 1:55.4.

Kusko has some tough competition in the mile. He ran 4:28.5 for sixth last week but Matt Dowling of College Park (4:18.4) and Schultz (4:17.0) could be too much for him. Schultz will be running the mile after the two-mile, however.

In the field events John Walden of Granada and Mike Bowles of San Ramon rate as the top local choices.

Walden cleared 6-7 last week to finish second to John Lane of American.

"John could go 6-9 this week or next," Matador field coach Terry Doe commented. "It all depends on how his shin splints are affecting him."

"He has the strength, speed and form to clear 6-9. Whether he will or not depends on certain factors like his injury and his steps."

Bowles has done 175-7 in the discus but could only go 150-2 last week. Bill Beckman of Eureka has done 168-7 this season and leads the qualifiers.

In girls competition Diana Stohr leads a powerful group of Granada athletes. Stohr won the 880 and 440 at El Cerrito and anchored the 440 and mile relay teams to second place finishes behind Berkeley.

Kathy Honour of Granada is also a strong candidate for a state meet berth. Honour won the long jump with a 17-2 leap last week, finishing 6½ inches ahead of her nearest rival.

Carol Dolsby of Monte Vista could surprise in the weights. She finished second in the shot put and third in the discus. Her shot put best of 40-1 is only nine inches behind leader Vanessa Brooks of Berkeley.

Wicks risks streak, AV starts playoffs

Rob Wicks will put his nine-game winning streak on the line tonight in San Rafael when the Amador Valley Dons meet El Cerrito High School at 5 p.m. at Alberts Field in the opening round of the North Coast Section baseball playoffs.

The Dons, who gained an at-large berth in the tourney after falling a game short of the East Bay Athletic League title will be led at the plate by a quartet of .300 hitters, including Wicks himself.

First baseman Jeff Terry hit .333 with 12 RBI during the regular season while left fielder Dan Straface, batted .315 with seven RBI, most in clutch situations. Catcher Mark Bevilacqua rounds out the list with a .306 percentage.

Mike Johnson was a top RBI man for AV, plating seven during the EBAL season.

The Dons will be up against Gaucha ace Doug Froster, who compiled a 0.70 earned run average during the ACAL season, just a shade less impressive than Wicks' 0.61.

Meanwhile, EBAL champion Monte Vista opens with another 5 p.m. game, this one at Diablo Valley College, against Diablo Valley Athletic League at-large entry, Mt. Diablo.

The Mustangs will throw Gregg Goodman (10-3, 0.70) against the Red Devils Tom Underwood (7-1, 0.49).

Primarily a singles - hitting team, the Mustangs are led by Greg Bisbee (.347), Mark Silva (.365), Kevin Jones (.400), Barry Long (.375), Mike Mattson (.385).

A's 'legs' topple Twins

Oakland A's sadly miss the long ball hitting of the departed Reggie Jackson but they have come up with a new formula for winning baseball games.

The swift legs of the defending American League

West champions earned them a 5-3 victory over the Minnesota Twins Thursday before a sun-bathed turnout of 3,720 fans at the Oakland Coliseum.

Oakland was out, 8 to 7, and failed to include one extra base blow in its total yet dazzled the Twins and losing pitcher Bert Blyleven with thievery on the basepaths.

The A's stole five bases during the day to up their season mark to 99 in 42 games. Oakland runners have pilfered 25 in their 29 tries.

Speedy Campy Campaneris had two steals Thursday with Billy North, Larry Lintz and Sal Bando, who Sal Bando each getting one.

The captain has attempted two steals and been safe on both.

Chuck Tanner, A's manager, summed up his club's tactics on the basepaths following the A's third win in four starts against visiting Minnesota. "You have to use the abilities at your command in this game or you stay stationary and don't get anywhere. Running is one of ours." Tanner didn't have to emphasize the lack of A's batting power.

LEGAL NOTICE

The use of this site for the proposed project is in accordance with both the zoning and the General Plan designation of the site. The use, catering primarily to freeway users, is compatible with its location adjacent to the freeway and existing neighboring motel/restaurant/service station uses. There are no known physical impediments to development and the project related impacts are insignificant. It is the finding of the City Manager that this project would not create, to a significant degree, any of the effects enumerated in the environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures which indicate that the environment may be harmed.

For more information on this case, contact the Department of Housing and Community Development, 200 Bernal Avenue, Pleasanton, CA 94566. Telephone 846-3202.

Unless any written appeals on this case are received by this department within ten (10) days of the above date or publication of this notice in the Pleasanton Times, which ever is later, this decision will become effective.

Restaurant groundbreaking

Ricardo Castro, dressed in white and wielding the shovel on the left, broke ground Tuesday for his new Mexican Restaurant on Main Street next to the Starting Gate. Next to him was Chris Berattis, developer of the building which will house the restaurant, scheduled for opening in September. It was a civic reunion of sorts: Berattis is a former councilman and Castro a former city planning director. Others at the ceremony included, from left, Chamber of Commerce President Merle Telford, John Weisser, Bank of America, which is financing the project; Clarence Baptista, also of the bank; Bob Byrd, the contractor; Sonja Castro; Castro; Berattis; Mayor Robert Philcox and Maid of Pleasanton Julie Hemming.

New manager

Bruce McGagin is the new manager of the Dublin office of United California Brokers at 6994 Village Parkway. McGagin is a long-time established real estate broker in the valley. A member of the Million Dollar Club, McGagin has been Salesman of the Quarter for the past year and a half.

Harris Burns, Phil Stearns and Mike Guida stand before one of the many cars offered at the new Tri-Valley Datsun dealership at 800 Portola Ave. in Livermore.

Datsun to Livermore!

LIVERMORE — Three heads are better than one, and when combined with resources, talents and energies, the result is a winner: Tri-Valley Datsun, located at 800 Portola Ave. in Livermore.

After a series of timely events, including a coincidental meeting and a bonus ending, Tri-Valley Datsun was ready to take over its new home!

The idea man was Harris Burns, formerly National Sales Administration Manager for Nissan Motor Company. Upon hearing of Datsun's desire to open a dealership in the valley, Burns contacted Nissan's National Business Management executive, Phil Stearns. Stearns put the idea into motion by contacting Mike Guida, who had retired after opening one of the most successful Datsun dealerships in the country, in Phoenix, Ariz.

The story of how these three men came to Livermore and found their present location could probably be submitted to Ripley's Believe It or Not! After locating the ideal spot, the vacant Abbes Volkswagen site, their problems really began.

Where was Ernie Abbes? After spending a hectic weekend which included a flight around the valley, Stearns, Guida and Burns decided to spend their last night by having dinner at the Rectory in Dublin.

As luck would have it, waiter Randy Hooper was asked if he was familiar with the car sales business, to which Hooper replied that he knew well the daughter of Ernie Abbes. When the three businessmen heard this, they promised Hooper $500 if he would arrange for them to meet with Abbes.

The rest of the story is history, with some good news. Randy Hooper will be presented with a check for $500 on the day of Tri-Valley Datsun's grand opening, and the valley will have its own first class Datsun dealership!

Stop on by and visit with Phil, Mike or Harris any time in their newly refurbished showroom. Local flavor has been included with the addition of three valley residents as salesmen. Bill Webb, Lamarr Rupley and Mike Bills combine experience and enthusiasm to help make your car buying easy and enjoyable!

President Phil Stearns, his wife Linda and their three teenagers "are here to stay!" Vice President and Sales Manager Mike Guida with his wife Jacque and their five children are also new valley residents. Secretary - Treasurer Harris Burns, his wife Julie and their three children are making Pleasanton their home.

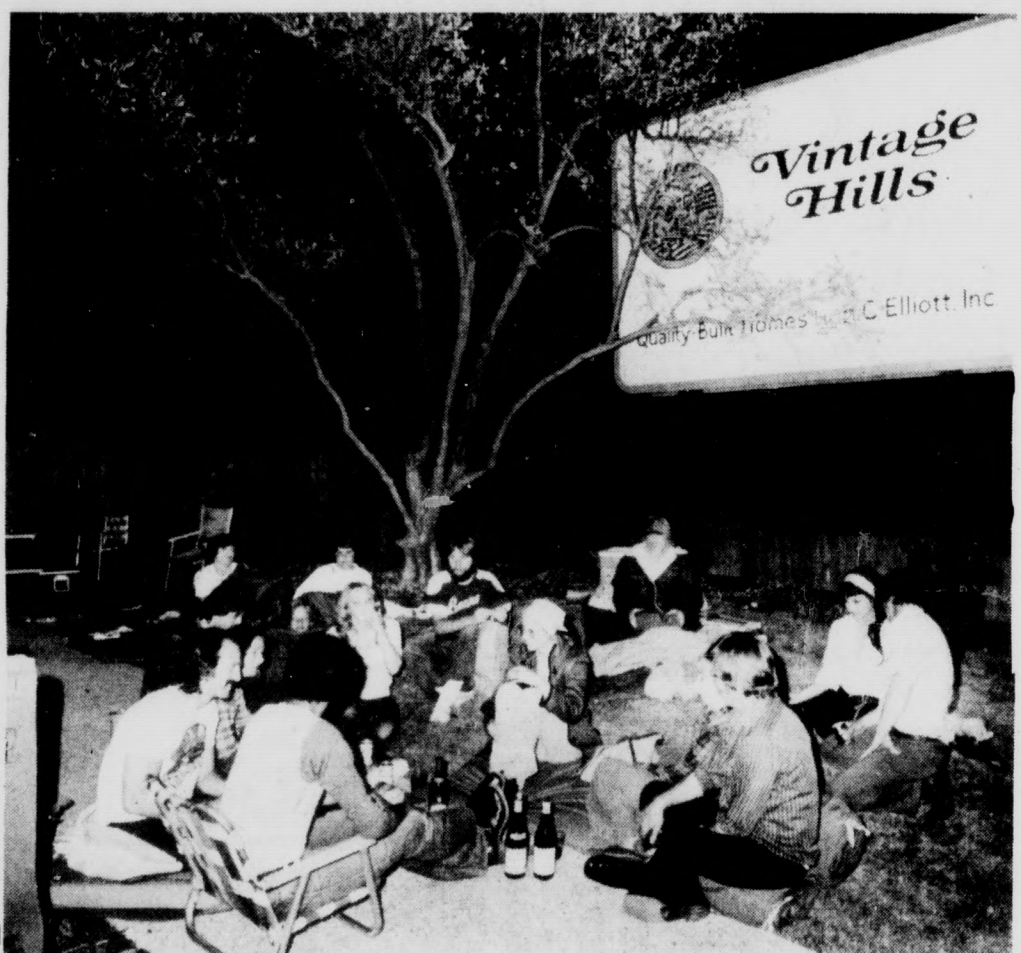

The show room is now open for sales, with the service department opening at the end of the week.

Camping on the eve of the grand opening of the newest phase of Vintage Hills, this homebuyer group had a party before bedding down in front of the sales office in Pleasanton.

'Campers' await homes

PLEASANTON — Homebuyers camped out in advance, purchased eight homes in the first two hours, and bought a total of 16 homes during the grand opening weekend of the new Vintage Hills in Pleasanton, according to Harry C. Elliott III, executive vice president of the Elliott homebuilding firm.

"People began arriving Thursday night to camp out on the model home complex lawn so they could be first in line when the sales office opened at 9 a.m. on Saturday," Elliott said.

The weekend sales at Vintage Hills represented $1.1 million, with individual homes priced from $53,950 to $67,500. Elliott is offering five distinctive floor plans in ranch-style, two-story, and tri-level designs, with three, four and five bedrooms.

Available for the first time in six months, the Vintage Hills homes offer such deluxe standard features as shake roofs, fireplaces, double garages, expansive kitchens with the most up-to-date appliances, including self-cleaning ovens, and many other amenities.

Homebuyers may see the Vintage Hills home sites still remaining from the original 40; and visit the model home complex by taking 680 from the north to Bernal Avenue exit in Pleasanton; turn left on Bernal to Main Street; jog left on Main, then jog right as Bernal continues to First Street; then left on First and right on Vineyard to Tawny Drive. From the south, take 680 to the Sunol Boulevard off-ramp, which exits onto First Street.

Penny Lane opens
